

Independent Learning Newsletter Tips

Living Across Two Houses

Living across two houses is a situation many students find themselves in. The nice thing is of course that you often get to have two rooms, and life isn't boring because you get to spend time in two places. But trying to keep yourself organised can be challenging at times. Go to www.studyskillshandbook.com.au, click on the For Students tab and scroll down to click on the Living Across 2 Houses link for ideas on how to keep yourself organised. Some of the ideas covered are the shopping bag office, choosing one house to be a storage base, exploring the idea of multiple textbooks, double stationery, using a thumbdrive for computer files with backups on home computers, having a written timetable and a checklist for each house.

So learn more this year about how to improve your results and be more efficient and effective with your schoolwork by going to the links section in your portal and opening the ELES handbook:

